INVESTMENT COMMENTARY

It was a weak month for Emerging Markets equities as Chinese stimulus expectations abated and widening fiscal concerns in Brazil drove markets lower. As a result, the underperformance to developed markets, led by the US, continued.

Brazilian equities have faced a near-perfect storm of rising real yields and a weakening currency as investors have become increasingly concerned about the country's widening fiscal deficit and political direction.

SKAGEN Kon-Tiki entered the year with a significant exposure to Brazilian companies, which has weighed on performance, also in November. Outside of Brazil, the key detractors during the month were our largest Chinese holdings, Ping An and Alibaba, both of which gave back some of their year-to-date gains during November. However, they remain strong contributors for the year as a whole.

On the positive side, West China Cement performed strongly as the market increasingly appreciates the company's attractive African exposure. Chinese auto dealership Zhongsheng also rose significantly on the back of news that it has signed a strategic cooperation with Chinese EV manufacturer Seres for its AITO brand. In Korea, the fund's bank holdings KB Financial, Hana Financial and DGB Financial rose on expectations for higher shareholder returns under the Corporate Value Up programme, a theme we have been positioned for over the last three years.

There were no changes in the fund's holdings during the month. As result, the fund maintains its attractive risk/reward profile as indicated by the 9x P/E and 0.9x P/B weighted average valuation, a discount of 35% and 50% respectively to the MSCI EM index.
