INVESTMENT COMMENTARY

The real estate sector delivered negative returns for the month. Yet again, this was mainly driven by setbacks in US interest rate cuts. Since the beginning of the year, the Fed funds futures have climbed around 130 bps, indicating that the rates will not decline as much as believed by the market in a year's time.

On the other hand, the Swedish interest rate cut seems to be fast approaching and might even come before the anticipated rate cut by the European Central Bank (ECB) in June this year. SKAGEN m2 still holds an overweight in Scandinavia and Europe.

The top performers for SKAGEN m2 in April were the Belgian healthcare real estate company Aedifica and the French housing developer Nexity. Both names were boosted by hopes of a June rate cut by the ECB. For Nexity, another key driver was confirmation that they will dispose of their property management business.

The worst performer in the month was the US warehouse giant Prologis, mainly on slightly lowered guidance for the year. The fund participated in the IPO of Norwegian Public Property Invest and now holds a position in the company.

SKAGEN m2 continues to focus on resilient companies in trend driven subsegments that are mispriced, can perform in various market conditions, have solid balance sheets, and are well positioned for inflation.

Historical returns are no guarantee for future returns. Future returns will depend, inter alia, on market developments, the fund manager's skill, the fund's risk profile and management fees. The return may become negative as a result of negative price developments. There is a risk associated with investing in the fund due to market movements, currency developments, interest rate levels, economic, sector and company-specific conditions.

RISK PROFILE

We have classified this product as 5 out of 7, which is a medium-high risk class. This rates the potential losses from future performance at a medium-high level. Other risks not included in the summary risk indicator but materially relevant: Event risk, liquidity risk, operational risk, counterparty risk, derivatives risk. Be aware of currency risk. You will receive payments in a different currency, so the final return you will get depends on the exchange rate between the two currencies. This risk is not considered in the indicator shown above. This product does not include any protection from future market performance so you could lose some or all of your investment.
